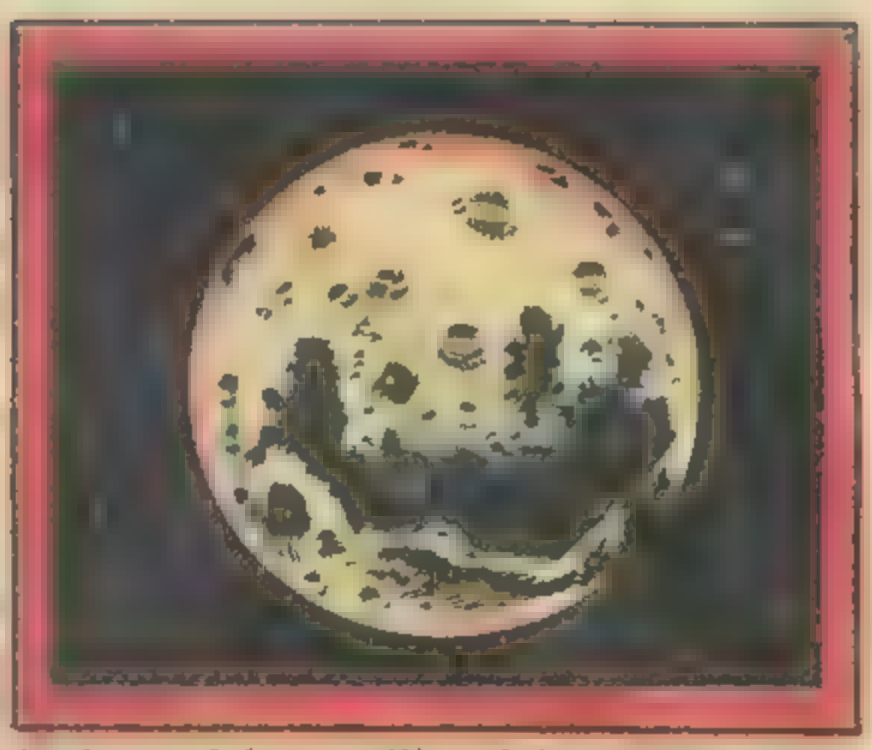
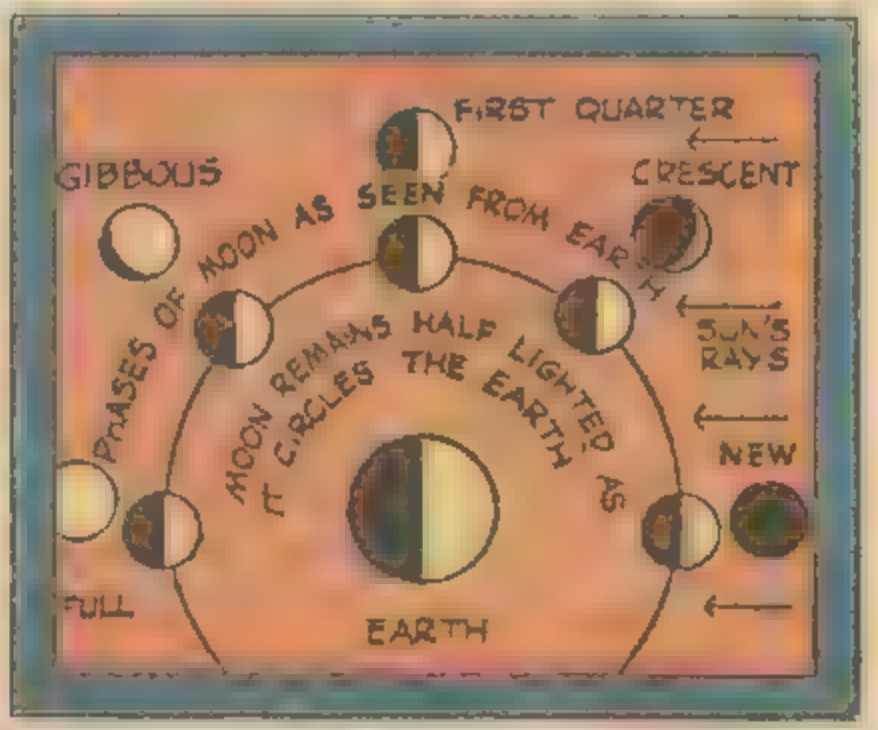
M ... MOON and TIDES

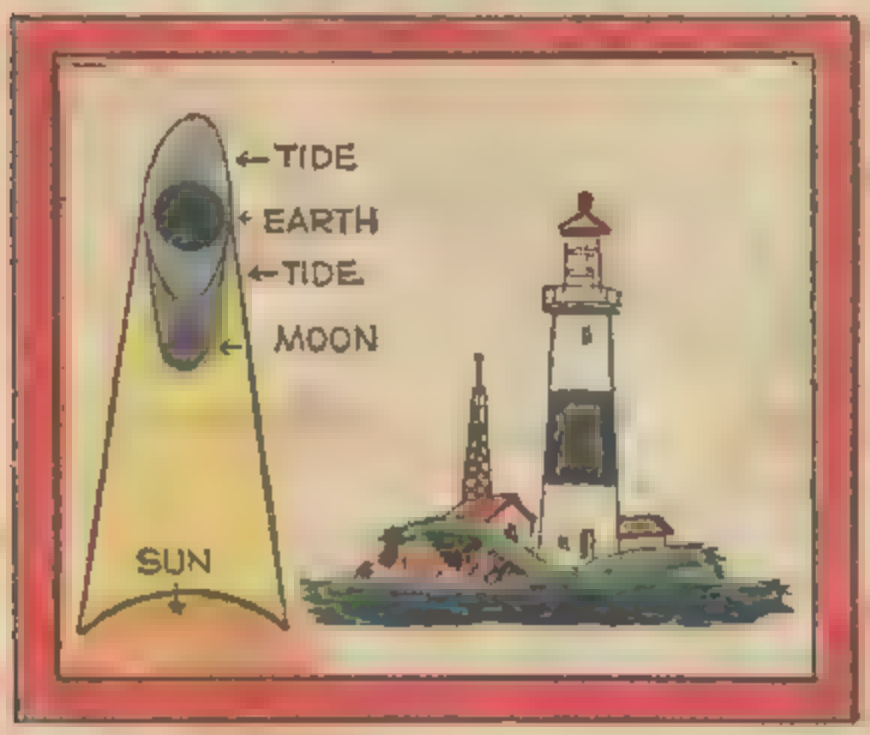


As the earth is a satellite of the sun, the moon is a satellite of the earth. It is a 2160-mile-in-diameter sphere of solid rock.

Craters on the pockmarked face of the moon were caused by meteorite blasts exploding with far more force than any man-made bomb.



Moonlight is the reflection of sunlight on the moon's surface. When the moon is between the earth and the sun, it is not visible to us.



Both sun and moon control ocean tides, but the pull of the moon is stronger. At new and full moons, we have high, or spring, tides.

At half moon, sun and moon play tug of war with the waters of the seas. Pulling against each other they cause low, or neap, tides.

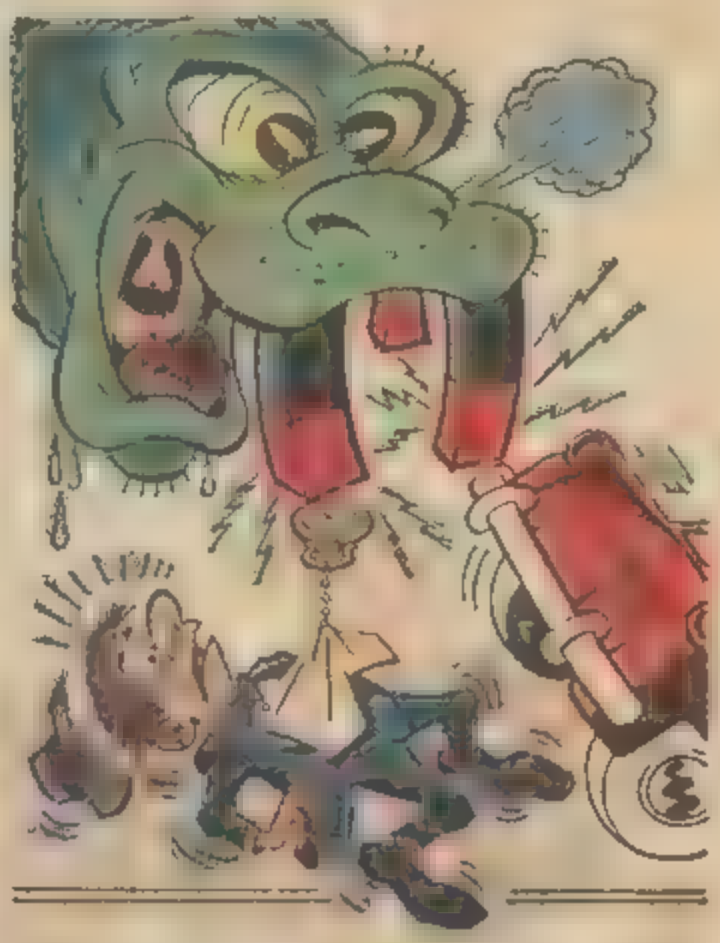
The DROUGHT MONSTER only has to walk through your county with his sponge feet to dry the place up.

The VOLCANO CAT barbecues its own dinner.



The MAGNET MONSTER likes a heavy iron diet.
